

Abstract

A parking aid for a vehicle is described which is used for detecting parking spaces as the vehicle travels past the parking spaces. Properties of the parking spaces are stored in a 5 memory and information on the parking spaces is output in an output unit.